Unconditionally

So tell me what can i do That you couldn't see through From the very start There is only one thing Yet to come from my heart

Loving you, unconditionally Loving you, unconditionally That's what i want to be What you are to me

Can you see why it's so hard For me to break apart From all the things i hold Closer to a heart That has grown, far too cold

Loving you, unconditionally Something new To a heart yet not free That's what i want to be What you are to me

And though it seems impossible When both of my hands are full That's the only condition That keeps me From loving you ... Extreme