Never Live To See

You have a choice You think it up to you They're in your mind making choices for you They tell you what you want to hear Before there's time to see the truth The truth behind their eyes They'll say you're right They'll say you're right They're taking all your chances They'll say you're right It's like they know you, but it was planted in your mind By you, by them, by dreams + ideals You'll never live to see; 'cause they're not real.

They're taking all They're taking all your They're taking all your chances.
