Fairport Convention

My father he rides with your sheriffs And I know he would never mean harm, But to see both sides of a quarrel Is to judge without haste or alarm

Oh, oh, helpless and slow, And you don't have anywhere to go

You take away homes from the homeless
And leave them to die in the cold
The gypsy who begged for your presents
He will laugh in your face when you're old

Well, one man he drinks up his whiskey Another he drinks up his wine And they'll drink till their eyes are red with hate For those of a different kind

When the rivers run quicker than trouble I'll be there at your side in the flood It was all I could do to keep myself From taking revenge on your blood
