Here we watch the horizon while the waves come crashing by To complete our desires, in the darkest of thunder we follow the one

Feel the waves of the ocean as Edoran carries his voice Five centuries have now gone by, for the love of our peers we w ill sing and rejoice

On the shore one stands for all Will it ever be... my own enemy?

Today we sail across the endless sea, to a place where all were left behind

To the island over the sea, no one will be left behind this tim e

In the darkest of thunder we follow the one...

Have the blessing of all our gods, they will protect all the on es we hold dear

Behind each man you can see their light, they will protect all the ones we hold dear

Right over the deep we sail to Duna, invade the wretched land Brothers waiting for their salvation

Sons of the twilight land, your fight is not over yet Many things are waiting to be done

Here we watch the horizon while the waves come crashing by To complete our desires, in the darkest of thunder we follow the e one

Feel the waves of the ocean as Edoran carries his voice Five centuries have now gone by, for the love of our peers we w ill sing and rejoice

On the shore one stands for all Will it ever be... my own enemy?

Today we sail across the endless sea, to a place where all were left behind

To the island over the sea, no one will be left behind this time

In the darkest of thunder we follow the one...

Today we sail across the endless sea, to a place where all were left behind

To the island over the sea, no one will be left behind this tim e

In the darkest of thunder we follow the one...