

Worth It

Faith Evans

Big Fizzy, brick city
Done away about to blow 'em away
I know I ain't perfect but you been doing wrong for a long time
And I don't deserve it
I been crying till the tears fill up my eyes
Boy you ain't worth it
I tried and tried to deal with all your lies
And now I am tired
There ain't no denying, I guess I'm moving on, yea

But when I try to tell you how I feel
You walk away because you can't keep it real

You ain't right
(I ain't perfect)
That ain't right
(You ain't worth it)
Maybe it will work out better baby if we say goodbye
You ain't right
(I ain't perfect)
That ain't right
You ain't worth it
Maybe it'll be better if we just stop wasting time

In the beginning, it seemed like all you did was make me smile
I thought I was winning, you had me going running game by the mile
But you got it twisted, cause I can't let you play me for a fool
And now I'm tired and ain't no denying, I guess I'm moving on, yea

But when I try to tell you how I feel
You walk away because you can't keep it real

You ain't right
(I ain't perfect)
That ain't right
(You ain't worth it)
Maybe it'll work out better baby if we say goodbye
You ain't right
(I ain't perfect)
That ain't right
You ain't worth it
Maybe it'll be better if we just stop wasting time

Baby let me put you up on game
Reality is that we both must go our separate ways
I know that over time some people change
For the better, will you ever, will you ever change
You ain't worth it

You ain't right
(I ain't perfect)
That ain't right
(You ain't worth it)
Maybe it'll work out better baby if we say goodbye

Maybe it'll be better if we just stop wasting time
