

Home

Falling Up

When you have fallen and scraped up your hands
Welling up tears deep down inside
I'll pick you up and the pain be forgotten
I'll keep you safe right by my side always

I'll holler you home always
I'll holler you home always
I'll holler you home

When you have used all the money I've given
Spending your life beyond my reach
When you have lost your way out in the shadows
There are no ways too dark for me always

When you have grown more than I can hold you
When you have leapt beyond this place
Maybe you'll never again recognize me
But my voice will be the same always