

Light stings his eyes
Can't turn back now
It was so slow that they couldn't predict it
His mind is just treading in infinite space

Cause he can't believe some mysterious chamber
Broke a dangerous leak
That turned to a storming sea it's swallowing up
The last that he knew of beauty

Was it all smoke and mirrors?

A man walked in the room
And sat by his son
Here are the words that are meant to be spoken
This is my purpose, of these words you should know

Close your eyes now
This is the last strength you'll have
Remember your life it was a brilliant color
Remember your mother she was a glowing ember
Remember your heart it had a perfect owner

Sleep now, diving up in pools
Sleep sound leave your fears to fools