Fools Cry

Once upon a time there was a love it wasn't meant to be given up forever free to shine. Once it found a way in time and space turned our darkness into craze forever yours and mine. Running wild far away sailing through the night burning love a star away following the light. Fools cry and then they turn around and sigh for life's a lonely lie no way to lose what I found and silent rain is falling down whenever fools cry whenever fools cry. Love a secret journey my crusade a sane and daring masquerade I'm holding on to you. Running wild far away sailing through the night burning love a star away following the light. Fools cry and then they turn around and sigh for life's a lonely lie no way to lose what I found and silent rain is falling down whenever fools cry whenever fools cry. Lifetime's another moment with you tender and wild then a tear of a fool shatters the crystal - why do fools cry ? Running wild far away sailing through the night burning love a star away following the light. Fools cry and then they turn around and sigh for life's a lonely lie no way to lose what I found and silent rain is falling down - whenever fools cry whenever fools cry.

Fancy
