Competition

it gets out feeling slow watching everyone is passing by and im still here is this worth all the stress and come around 'cause im still down everything is so confusing competition swallows me from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see competition worries me brings out the best in you and the worst in me caught this time in the middle come and find a common ground everyone seems to be staring am i wrong indecision i don't know who ive become and i'm not sure who you are either competition swallows me from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see competition worries me brings out the best in you and the worst in me i suppose you have some games that you would love to play with me i sure do would you like to try be my guest competition swallows me from a life where what you hear ain't always what you see competition worries me brings out the best in you

Fanmail