Feeder

Here I am again, what a time to be alone
The void and empty space as darkness overcome
I think that I will wake in a body of stone
Banging on the door, calling on the phone

Been a while, been a while here
It's been a while, been a while here

The sound of mauling rain, thunderstorms
The rhythm as it falls, I'm asleep at home

Been a while, been a while here
Pay the price and your name will clean

Now I wait, I wait
'Till the hours turn today
Infrared, ultraviolet

Called myself a man, I'm a fool
The best name I ever had went away too soon
I should have seen the signs, that look up on your face
A twisted, broken smile, scars that never fade

Been a while, been a while here
It's been a while, been a while here
I've been a while, been a while here
Pay the price and your name will clean

Now I wait, I wait
'Till the hours turn today
Infrared, ultraviolet

Lost in silence, nothing's clear
Emptiness fuels you with fear
Clutching at the final straw
Warning signs outside our doors (3×)

Now I wait, I wait
'Till the hours turn today
Infrared, ultraviolet
I wait, I wait
'Till the light begins to fade
Infrared, ultraviolet
