

To Be Honest

Fey

To be honest I don't like follow rules and let me tell you what I think is my own truth and to be honest i don't like to be controlled and let me tell you we must scream out loud together all together

somehow we are trying to revive something that will make us feel alive sometimes we are fighting to survive and now our echos must be louder than the words than the words

well, uh uh well, uh uh well, uh uh

To be honest you must live for what you want and only you can keep respect for who you are to be honest you must learn to take control and let me tell you we must scream out loud together all together .

somehow we are trying to revive something that will make us feel alive sometimes we are fighting to survive and now our echos must be louder than the words than the words

well, uh uh well, uh uh well, uh uh you will be mine.

somehow we are trying to revive something that will make us feel alive sometimes we are fighting to survive and now our echos must be louder than the words than the words, ah... somehow we are trying to revive something that will make us feel alive sometimes we are fighting to survive and now our echos must be louder than the words than the words well, well, well...