

Arc Of The Curve

Fish

Do you remember the magic of the moment
When forever was only words away?
When we believed everything was certain
And all we had to do was fulfill promises we'd made

And cherish hope between us and our dreams were always safe
We'd always be together and in that I had my faith
I put a ring upon your finger and that smile upon your face

And I told you that I couldn't love you more
And we longed for the arc of the curve
We launched on the arc of the curve
We touched the stars

The fairy tale, the breathless rush of romance
If love is blind then I will never see again
When we awoke the spell remained unbroken
Our souls entwined in afterglow, you held my beating heart
You blew away my shadows, you kissed the tears from my eyes

And you told me that you couldn't love me more
We sailed on the arc of the curve
We flew on the arc of the curve
And touched the stars, we touched the stars

The days are long, the nights are longer
In every minute there's a thought of you
I can't forget the magic of the moment
I stare into the mirror to pretend I'm not alone
It takes everything I have not to call you on the phone

Just to tell you that I couldn't love you more
That I'm lost on the arc of the curve
Careering on the arc of the curve
Crashing on the arc of the curve

I could never contemplate that you would ever walk away
