

Scattering Crows

Fish

Still as a breath held as a sigh, still as a heart that denies, the final truth, the breaking news, on the edge of a moment where we hope and we pray that theres still time, theres always time, time to look back, time to regret, time to remember just how we met Time slips slowly by as I stare at forever
And I wonder if we still have time?
Still after all is said and done,
Still youre the only one to touch my soul To fill my world, your magic still lingers as it did once upon a time
Would you give me time, could you change your mind?
Let me get on my knees, Im begging you please all I want for yo u to do is forgive me. Give me one more chance, let me prove to you that I can still be true let me show you that the love we have isnt over, that we still have time.
Let me run to you through an open field youll see me coming,
Ill be scattering crows
Everything keeps changing, Nothing ever stays the same
Let me run to you through an open field, Youll see me coming,
Ill be scattering crows