Out the picture out the frame I took myself out of the game, So afraid I ran away, I shot the craw,

I played the fool; I played the field I was seduced by other dr eams,

I sowed my seed I flew the scene I shot the craw,

I dance without you, I dance without you, I dance without you, dance without you.

Among the voices in my soul I should have listened to my soul, Realised the flight was wrong I shot the craw,

On another cloudy day so far apart so far away I have wished th at I had stayed, not shot the craw.

I dance without you, dance without you, I learned to dance with out you, I danced without you.

Sometimes I find myself lost in my thoughts in a crowded room, Alone in a world I once shared with you, a world full of hope w here our hearts were pure, where we dreamed that our lives were forever, together always entwined.

I thought that I could dance without you, dance without you, le arn to dance without you, dance without you.

So I face another day and in my heart I take the blame, The regrets always the same, I shot the craw.

I can't dance without you, dance without you, dance without you, I can't dance without you,

Sometimes I find myself lost in my thoughts in a crowded room, Alone in a world I once shared with you, a world full of hope w here our hearts were pure, where we dreamed that our lives were forever, together always entwined.

Now I find that I can't dance without you, dance without you, I can't dance without you,

Baby's coming back, baby's coming back, your baby's coming back.
Baby's coming back.
