You've Changed

We've been through this before Compromise With me agree right now Useless cries I'm telling you just how Paralyzed There is nothing I can do I realize I liked the other you. You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict Hypnotized By all your complex games Sacrifice My own opinions change Justify Just why to stay with you I can't see why Nothing else for me to do It makes no sense Putting ourselves through all this At my expense Don't I deserve much less It's way past time To right the wrong we're in The bottom line No way that we can win You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict You brought it all, all on yourself, you're strange to me [background vocal] You brought on all this mess

My needs were not addressed You caused so much distress This much you must admit

You brought it all, all on yourself, you're strange to me [background vocal] You brought on all this mess My needs were not addressed You caused so much distress This much you must admit

You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict

You've changed Everything about you is strange Look at yourself, you've changed With the facts in your face It's causing conflict

I'm not the one who changed

I'm not the one who changed