Sisters of the Moon

Fleetwood Mac

Intense silence
As she walked in the room
Her black robes trailing
Sister of the moon

And a black widow spider makes
More sound than she
And black moons in those eyes of hers
Made more sense to me

Heavy persuasion
It was hard to breathe
She was dark at the top of the stairs
And she called to me

And so I followed as friends often do I cared not for love nor money
And I think she knew
Well, the people, they love her
And still they are the most cruel

She asked me, "Be my sister Sister, sister of the moon"

Some call her sister of the moon Some say, illusions are her game They like to wrap her in velvet Does anyone, ooh, know her name?
