My Savior

Flesh Field

Stillness calms me while the darkness pounds outside my head Hate surrounds my life until you bring me peace again Your voice is all I need to keep the hurt from seeping in One last time I call your name And you save me once again

My only love, I bleed for you
And I can't let go, no matter what I do
Your face, so sweet
I never want to see you go

As I lay there dying in your arms you weep for me You brush a kiss against my lips, and then I'm whole again My pain disappears as I lay with you, and we become one soul I feel your arms close around me tight And I know I can go on

My only love, I bleed for you
And I can't let go, no matter what I do
Your face, so sweet
I never want to see you go
