The Death of Beowulf

Folkearth

Where now is the hero Where is thy singing sword That spelled the bane of dragons And sent the Ogress to Hell?

Beowulf, these lands will miss you! Never again to Denmark shall you return Beowulf, the Valkyries doth kiss you!

The fire has left his eyes
Then rain afterwards came
To gently wash the blood away
His noble features so pale to lay

Beowulf, these lands will miss you! Never again to Denmark shall you return Beowulf, the Valkyries doth kiss you!

In the end he overcame
Victory for the brave
Glory, majesty - eternal hail!