

From Zion

For Today

Every living thing
will bow down at his feet.
And every enemy
will suffer their defeat.
Our deliverer has come.

This is war.
Our history has led us here.
Creation sings in celebration.
This is war.
This mystery's beheld us here.
He is the voice of liberation.

Now is the age of redemption.

Prophesized by generations past, a redeemer for captive Israel.
Our Messiah has been sent at last, to take the throne
and shut the gates of hell.

We fight for justice; the war has just begun.
Our king has come now.
Now I see freedom - I see it rising up,
like that star after sundown.

With a voice that shake the heavens,
and with words that calm the seas;
there is one the prophets told us
that the nations would receive.
This is what we've been waiting for.

Rise up.
Never again do we fight alone.
The promised one has come to set his people free.
From the ashes came our greatest victory.

This mystery has been revealed to the discerning:
The Lamb was slain. The blood was shed. Let death pass over us.
The sacrifice was made for sinners, undeserving.
Now we stand set apart to storm, the gates of hell.

The fight for justice, it has just begun
our king has come now.
Now I see freedom - I see it rising up,
like that star after sundown.

With a voice that shake the heavens,
and with words that calm the seas;
there is one the prophets told us
that the nations would receive.
This is what we've been waiting for.

Rise up.
Never again do we fight alone.
Rise up.
We are the resistance.

Rise up.

Now is the time to rise up.
