With A Passion Burning

Do you have a passion? Find something that you love Run with it, don't stop for anyone else No one can get you down You are better than that Fight for your passion Be knowledgeable of your roots and proud of what you've become If what you love reflects yourself inside out It is not a trend So many people will never find true life and all the passion that can flow from it Everyone is so quick to judge All just so quick to judge But while they're just watching We'll run past them
