Dusk to Dawn

Forefather

The sky begins to darken gradually As the sun descends to the horizon making the trees look grim And the atmosphere feel dormant

Chinks of light break the layers of dark As the sun ascends the sky making the trees look benign And the atmosphere feel awake