

Last night I walked again that soil, places in my mind Remembrances as cold pieces of glass Blood red stained mirrors lie broken upon the floor
A time so far - Something we can't recall

I'll take your hand towards the night where our souls will be as one I can't describe the day when we crossed our solitude ways

Deserted houses - Haven of mine Tombs under eternal fog and frost
The pool of blood is turning cold, as we watch our reflection becoming red as December dusk

I'll take your hand towards the night
where our souls will be as one You'll never cry alone in the rain
The sleep will heal our solitude days

They'll never live the meaning of parting Souls left alone in the night as tears flow with the pain

Loneliness, coldness and bloodlust Alcohol, razorblades and the same old places Blood, tears and semen the only human things will be left of me?

I love the night as I love your eyes You'll burn inside the cold lands of my heart
Our way together towards inhumanity
Our dreams without any God above

I'll take your hand towards the night
where our souls will be as one We'll never cry alone in the rain
Only Death now could divide our solitude ways