

It's Coming This Way

Four Letter Lie

The world in a wreckage led by snakes and I am losing composure
I want you to see the man I can be without temptation
Ripping you, pulling you, taking you away
Desperation is overwhelming to see the light of a new perspective

With no trace I will disappear
It's driving me to no longer walk in fear
Take me now, I'm praying for an accident to end my life

I want you to see the man I can be without temptation
Ripping you, pulling you, taking you away
Desperation is overwhelming to see the light of a new perspective
You're the difference
Look at me now that I can see the outside with no distractions
My lungs will no longer breathe the ocean water
I'm released from this cell

I'd give up everything. It's sinking in,
Shed my skin, I can finally start again