

Bring on the World

Four Year Strong

I see the sun and it's finally fading
Bring on the world we're not alone tonight
So sick, so sick of waiting
It feels like it's only getting harder
Until I feel it pull me in
You're losing sight of almost everything
What does it mean to you

We're still waiting to prove
To prove you have what it takes to see this through
We've got nothing left to lose
We're still waiting, still waiting for you

The pounding in my head is getting stronger
Bring on the world we're not alone tonight
The beating in my heart is getting louder
And we're stomping our feet to the sound
Show me that you're not going down
On your way back up, we'll find a common ground
Open your eyes and take a look around
The home you've built yourself is falling down

We're still waiting to prove
To prove you have what it takes to see this through
We're still waiting, still waiting for you

Bring on the world!

We're still waiting to prove
To prove you have what it takes to see this through
We're still waiting, still waiting for you
