

Fairweather Fan

Four Year Strong

Just give me one, one good reason to forgive you of your treason.
You turned your back, you ran away
At the first sign of light of a brand new day.
Controlled by a few too many who think I sold my soul for a pretty penny.
If only you knew the truth behind
the view you hold so dearly.
It's only a matter of time.

Restart you heart!

And I'm calling out to prove
that I still believe the truth,
but I still can't say the same for you.

You're becoming what I hated,
close-minded and jaded
about what isn't yours.
My life!
My hopes!
My dreams!
Looking out for me 'cause I know it's only a matter of time before my luck runs out
so I'll live each day like it's my last.

This time I'm done giving into every critic who thinks he's been through a war with me.
You don't know where I've been or what I've seen.
The gears of this rusting machine.

Restart you heart!

And I'm calling out to prove
that I still believe the truth,
but I still can't say the same for you.

You're becoming what I hated,
close-minded and jaded
about what isn't yours.
My life!
My hopes!
My dreams!
Looking out for me 'cause I know it's
only a matter of time before my luck runs out
so I'll live each day like it's my last.

We're standing
standing up to face the branding!
We've said it before, we'll say it again!
Rise or die trying!
Rise or die trying!

And I'm calling out to prove that I still know the truth.

You're becoming what I hated,
close-minded and jaded
about what isn't yours.
My life!
My hopes!
My dreams!
Looking out for me 'cause I know it's only a matter of time before my luck runs out.
'Cause I know it's only a matter of luck before my time runs out
so I'll live each day like it's my last.