

Scarlet stains the nightfall
Bright rays, elusive
Fearless power behaviors drift by my side

Dream or real, it's not clear
But the scare drills inside of me
Outlines still my motions
And drag me to the clouds
An arcane source of energy stirs in my soul

Is this the place where we all die
Or are revived?

The creatures seem to foreknow me, literally
Since I was born
In a psychic way we even communicate
Their reasons are mine

Resources depleted
Forests and wildlife disentrained
Compassion disproved
Somehow we lost the trail

Invariably we choose to break the natural harmony
We never wonder why so many cry
Solitude spreads like a plague
To the realm of organic strains we are parasites
All we long turns grey, all around...

Losing my name, purified
Into the realm of a greater life

Invariably we choose to break the natural harmony
We never wonder why so many cry
Solitude spreads like a plague
To the realm of organic strains we are parasites
All we long turns grey

Losing my name, unified
Into the realm of greater days