

Heartache Reborn

Francis Dunnery

I packed my bags and took my life across the water
Into clear blue skies
And some say I'm lucky to have what I got
But no matter where you are
It's still the same old life

I got new friends and neighbours
I left all my old ones behind
But there ain't no escaping cos love tracks you down
And you find yourself lost in some crazy foreign town

How can I possibly love when I feel so alone
And how can I possibly love with a cold heart of stone
Heartache reborn
Heartache reborn

I changed my clothes I changed my hair
I changed my life style I changed my views
You can hide behind clothes
You can hide from your friends
But alone with a mirror you face the truth again
And the truth made me angry
Cos I thought that I'd left it behind
So I can't give you nothing
Cos I'm wrapped up in me
And I can't help thinking
The man I used to be

How can I possibly love when I feel so alone
And how can I possibly love with a cold heart of stone
Heartache reborn
How can I possibly love when I feel so alone
And how can I possibly love with a cold heart of stone
Heartache reborn

I don't care about the clothes they say I'm wearing
I don't care if they don't like my hair
I don't care which town I choose to live in
As long as I can play some rock n' roll there
Yeah!

If the glamour don't get then loose women will
And you'll find yourself lost amongst crazy foreign people

How can I possibly love when I feel so alone
And how can I possibly love with a cold heart of stone
Heartache reborn
