Today I felt my heart slide into my belly So I puked it up with liquor and I slept right where I lay And I dreamed the backs of cards for the faces were not telling No, I never have felt sicker and I do not want to wake Here comes another nightmare of you again Another velvet nightmare come true again Oh, I should have seen it coming Oh, please don't let it end My nightmare of you again No, I never would have come here but my eyes they would not foc us So I took my last three dollars and I spent them on a drink I had visions of you, dear, but they floated without notice All these drunkards do is holler till this drunkard cannot thin A curtain falls A scene [Incomprehensible] It seems your blue eyes glisten Here comes another nightmare of you again Another velvet nightmare come true again Oh, I should have seen it coming Oh, please don't let it end My nightmare of you again