

Give Me Your Love

Frank Duval

Something strange was in the air when I woke up last night.
A special formed light and a far away voice was talking to me:
Give me your love
Try to believe in feelings.
Give me your love
Try to believe in me.
Give me your love
Time has a special value
A moment of love that's eternity.
Give me your love
You'll find a door of glass and light
You'll open it
You'll leave the night
You'll never feel alone.
Give me your love
That's the sign for you to rise
Into a new dimension of life
Give me your love.
The voice strange and light faded away when dawn came
And left me behind with these words in the air:
Give me your love
You'll find a door of glass and light
. . .