[Lowell:] Years ago in Germany when I was a very small boy, there was a lot of people standing around on the corners asking questions: "Why are you standing on the corner, acting the way you act, looking like you look? WHY DO YOU LOOK THAT WAY?" And they ask me and I only would say: "I don't . . . I don't know, I'm just standing 'round the corner waiting here . . . just in . . . in the evening, and . . . and it's so nice outside . . . the night is so nice . . . why . . . are you just asking these questions . . . "
