

Caramelize

You make me blue

I wanna make a man out of you

The light in the world is dull

It's hard

Light empties space through the darkness

Close my eyes and they start to sting

Feeling my tear ducts doing their thing

I'm kinda pretty, that's why you want it so bad

When the heart gets too tender

Return it to the sender

Be more centered

If you miss your friend

Call them again

Last night I got so swept up

My heart beat was kept up

That song you gave to me

Is it wrong or meant to be?

When you rolled off way back when

I got this feeling I would never see you again

But here you are in my bed

Heart gets tender

Those gaping wide

Secret eyes

Closed on me

They don't wanna see

I want in on the other side

Love your eyelids where you hide

Or further in that neatest dark

But my boyish emotion

Keeps me soft like the ocean

Are you relieved when I leave?

That I needed to be held

Is a vice like anything else

Let the others push you down

Other vices to make you mad

I just want to give you strength

How do you make I'll leave you think

The extent to which you've grown on me

I can feel now you've got a hold on me

When you rolled off way back when

I got this feeling I would never see you again

But here you are in my bed

Heart gets tender
