

Drinking Too Much

Fred Eaglesmith

Darlin', lately, something's been different
When we go out at night
There's a fire in your eyes
But something is missing
They just don't burn as bright
You take my hand more than you used to
But I'm not sure that it's love
You seem to stumble more often these days
Darlin', I keep holding you up
Even old friends say that you're out of touch
Darlin', are you drinking too much
Darlin', lately, I see you've been buying
Your cocktails two at a time
When it's last call, if your glass is empty
You've been finishing mine
You take my hand more than you used too
But I'm not sure that it's love
You seem to stumble more often these days
And darlin', I keep holding you up
Even my friends say that you're out of touch
Darlin', are you drinking too much
You used to be the life of the party
And not just the talk of the town
And you used to want to go out every night
And now you're afraid of a crowd
Even our friends say you're out of touch
Darlin', are you drinkin' too much
Darlin', are you drinkin' too much
