Housing (in)

Frightened Rabbit

Through the doldrum roar, the great northeastern lines Coupled carriage ticking light, my metronome I see the housing glow, the skyline of cheap gold And crooked teeth I will call home for the day or so

You can't carry me away now Please don't steal me from my house You can't carry me away now I've just laid my head down You can't carry me away now Please don't steal me from my house You can't carry me Don't steal me from my house

Inside the housing glow I stiffen my tired shoes With the starch of family food Oh, I've missed you so

You can't carry me away now Please don't steal me from my house You can't carry me away now I've just laid my head down You can't carry me away now Please don't steal me from my house You can't carry me Don't steal me from my house
