

Wander

Fuel

Wake to the morning
I believe your time has come
I'll hold a candle
So you can see where you belong
Love is so strong
It'll leave you lyin' in tears
Fate has a way of showin' you through all the years

Even though your house is made of stone
The wolves will still get in

As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart

Trust in yourself, and take your chances as they come
Pride makes the man more than fearless
Take all your steps like they're all the last ones that you'll see
For this life is here to live remember
All you give is never ending

Know to walk a thousand miles
Begins with only one step

As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart

Ride the seasons of your life
No regrets and no disguise

As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart

As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
As you wander through the world
Just carry all the words to heart
