

For All That You Want

Gary Barlow

I can't sit and wait for you to say
If there's room inside your heart
I'm not used to playin' loves silly game
Turn me down or let me start
You have to believe I'll make things right
Open your arms give up the fight
For all that you want
For all that you're feeling
There's a place where you should be

For all that you need
I will be waiting, my key to life is honesty
Now if you decide, to run & hide
It's only you you're cheating,
The key's in your hand you must understand
I won't be defeated no,
I really believe this goal's in sight

Open your arms let me see your light
For all that you want
For all that you're feeling
There's a place where you should be
For all that you need

I will be waiting, my key to life is honesty
I'm sure that you've heard this before
So many times
Look deep inside my heart and you will find

My key to life is honesty
For all that you want
For all that you're feeling
There's a place where you should be
For all that you need I will be waiting, my key to life is honesty
