Run, run Run, run

Run, you'd better find somewhere to run You've made a fool of everybody But you're not fooling anyone

Hide, you always need someplace to hide But you can't hide from what's inside yourself You just can't face it

Run, run for cover now You'd better run for cover now You'd better find some other place to hide From loneliness inside

You'd better run Run for cover now You'd better run for cover now Before it gets too late

Run, you're gonna run like out of time You let the suffering behind now And all the years have passed you by

Lies, I used to listen to you
Lies, but now I've learned to read between the lines
I've got your number

Run, run for cover now
You'd better run for cover now
You'd better find some other place to hide
From loneliness inside

You'd better run Run for cover now You'd better run for cover now Before it gets too late

Run, run for cover now You'd better run for cover now You'd better find some other place to hide From loneliness inside

You'd better run
Run for cover now
You'd better run for cover now
You'd better find some other place to hide
What's eating you inside

You'd better run Run for cover now You'd better run for cover now Yeah

Run for cover Run, run, run, run Run, run, run, run Run, run, run, run Yeah
