A Subway Called You

Gary Numan

Here we are
We drift like gas
On someone elses bed
I pay high you know

Here we are
How old are you
Its just a job to me

Here the ladies always ring twice Thought you'd slip away tonight with me In a subway I called you

Hello you no more this talk of my boys will be yours

No more I This conversation drains My patience dry.

Here the business always rings twice No relaxing for the boys tonight In a subway I called you

Here the tension always slows twice Shed one tear its just routine for now In a subway I called you
