

We're the Unforgiven

Gary Numan

Once there was life and we were strong, full of pride
Once we bred fear and we would take the flesh denied
Once we were God's and all things knelt before our word or died
Now we're just a ruin
We were our undoing
We're the unforgiven.

Once there was light but we were vain, lost in mind
Once we bled rage and to our shame we killed the blind
Once we were praised but all things fall, even God's unkind
Now we're a dead religion
Not one soul delivered
We're the unforgiven

We're unforgiven
We're unforgiven

We're unforgiven
We're unforgiven
