Termite Thermometer

Magneto driven, can't you see I've got need for batteries Nanometers in width and length, Tiny but with super strength Swallow me cloaked in a pill, I'll find the place where you are I'll Cancer killing microbot, I wiggle in and eat the rot

This science, heaven sent, Will set a precedent I'm getting deeper, now You won't know where I went

Hurtling past cells and molecules The platelets sparkling like jewels Before my tools

Miniscule and maximized, Invisible to human eyes Smuggling little flecks of hope, I'm blowing up your microscope

Termite thermometer, Check out the monitor, If you look closely, now You might just see my blur Gas Huffer