

Missing You Just Started Hitting Home

Gene Watson

The happy hour is over and the crowd is gone
That old jukebox is silent I'm by myself till dawn
And for the first time since you said goodbye I feel so alone
Missing you just started hittin' home

Missing you just started hittin' home
Of all the things I've ever done
Why did I have to do you wrong
And if I've got to hurt this bad
Then I don't wanna to live too long
Missing you just started hittin' home

I wonder what you're doing and how far you've gone
And I wonder how I'll ever make it here alone
'Cause I got no place to be and I'm just barely hangin' on
Missing you just started hittin' home

Missing you just started hittin' home
Of all the things I've ever done
Why did I have to do you wrong
And if I've got to hurt this bad
Then I don't wanna to live too long
Missing you just started hittin' home
Missing you just started hittin' home
