

Loving You Could Never Be Better

George Jones

Well, here we are again, tonight alone, just us two
Where the lights are dim and true love is coming through.
There's no one else in this whole world as far as we're concerned
We built ourselves a fire so let it burn.

When you look at me like you do right now I go to pieces
Because I know what's on your mind it's just me
You've got that love-me-look in your eyes
Like you've had so many time and how
Loving you could never be better than it is right now.

Tomorrow night we'll meet again to once more fan the flame
'Cause loving you the way I do stays the same
This love of ours is just as strong as any vow could be
And love could never be better for you and me.

When you look at me like you do right now I go to pieces
Because I know what's on your mind it's just me
You've got that love-me-look in your eyes
Like you've had so many time and how
Loving you could never be better than it is right now.

Loving you could never be better than it is right now...
