Rest In Peace

George Jones

Old heart it's finally over
It ended with the dawn
Last night she packed her things to go
This morning she was gone.

It's ashame you had to lose her 'Cause you loved and held her dear But she can't break you anymore 'Cause she'll never find you here.

See the roses all around you They'll bloom here every spring And you always did love bluebirds Oh, just listen to them sing.

And you know I won't forget you I'll come by from time to time And on this tiny stone I'll write Here lies a friend of mine.

Now all your friends have gathered here The music played for to long After all she's put you through I'll bet you're glad to go.

Why, just last night I felt you break in pieces While she had me on my knees
Now old heart you can finally rest in peace
Now old heart you can finally rest in peace...
