

The Right Left Hand

George Jones

I've cried a million tears, down through the years
Searching for that special one
And the vows I took before, where all forever more
But no matter how I tried, they came undone

Then the good Lord finally gave me the true love of a lady
Someone who believes in me
And she lets me know each day, that love is here to stay
I finally found someone who'll never leave

I put a golden band on the right left hand this time
And the right left hand put a golden band on mine
When our hair is snowy white, time will prove I'm right
I put a golden band on the right left hand this time

I'll never have to reach for the love that my heart needs
She'll be close enough to touch
And when the nights are long and cold
She'll be there to hold, all dressed up for one more night of love

I put a golden band on the right left hand this time
And the right left hand put a golden band on mine
When our hair is snowy white, time will prove I'm right
I put a golden band on the right left hand this time
I put a golden band on the right left hand this time
