A weapon of fire, emotions mistrust

And they're still lying, they won't be too pushed

Call me to freedom, too much to bear

Take me to reason, and I'll fly from there

But if you run, and hide, you'll lose my soul

When it's time to cross the tide, I'll be lost in the flow When the truth won't happen Please don't try to run

If life was a season, the leaves turned to gray Call in a free bird, who may light the way These words were spoken, to tempt you from fire A hope for emotion, which came to desire But if you run, and hide, you'll lose my soul

When it's time to cross the tide, I'll be lost in the flow When the truth won't happen Please don't try to run

Or the world we're shaping
Will fall from the sky
I'll take your happy fall
And linger as time goes on
Solitary motion, will lead to despair

Fortunes in bleeding, will bring souls to bear But if it's hoping, I'm hoping too much It's not the solution, to live on mistrust But if you run, and hide, you'll lose my soul

When it's time to cross the tide, I'll be lost in the flow When the truth won't happen Please don't try to run

When you're lost please don't try to run Please don't try to run