

Song For Tomorrow

Ghost Mice

I will not sing another song for the dead
Because the dead, they are not listening.
From now on all the songs that I sing
Will be songs sung for the living.
I will not sing about my heartbreaks.
It's better to sing about your heart aches.
I will not sing about what I once had
But I'll sing about what I long to have
Because the future holds a chance
And you can never catch up to your past.
You've got to look it right in the eye and say goodbye.
I will not waste another minute of my time trying to raise the dead.
I will not waste a second of my life
'Cause when some things are broken they can never be fixed.
So I say goodbye because I'll never go back in time.
So I say good bye.