

Return of the Living Dead

Ghoultown

when there's no more room down there in hell anymore old man lucifer's gonna laugh and slam the door leavin us to walk the earth when we die make this place a living hell for those left alive it don't make no difference either way what do you think we're gonna save it don't take no death to end your life when you're born into the grave

chorus:

I stalk the dark and narrow path and that's for sure between the legs of someone's ill-begotten whore singin all my songs on this broken guitar funeral procession from bar-room to bar

wicked man shadows are long - sun fallin down it must be an evil that's brewin all around thoughts on the bullet - eyes holdin still seconds are hours tickin to the kill

chorus:
you're a wicked man
I shot the hell you down
you're a wicked man
your blood is on the ground
you're a wicked man
feel the powder burn
you're a wicked man
but I'm the devil's son could you hear the sound - of the trigger's toll lead speedin thru the air just like a howlin dog hear the widow's song - gospel good as dead by me there you lie a scarlet riverbed smoke is finally clear - everyone's a mess now they start to realize just who I really am silent - lonesome moan you thought you were the man but you were fkin wrong

I'm the devil's son...
