

My Cloud

Gil Scott-Heron

And when the morning comes if there's been no rest for you...
We've been friends long enough you should know what to do...
If that's how you start your day...
Why keep running away...
When you could, come and join me on my cloud...

And in the afternoon if things are still the same...
You've always held a key to affect a change...
But what more need I say when you're running away from me...
When you could come and join me on my cloud...

How you must wonder in the evening...
How everything got so turned around...
Please don't let it get you down...
All you got to do...
Is just come and join me...
On my cloud...

And I've saved a special place right here next to me...
And it's always been you're space I'm sure that you will see...
You could always count on me...
To love you and let you be Free...
So why not come and...
Join me...
You could come and...
Join me...
You can come and join me on my cloud...
