

Ain't No Telling (what Tomorrow Will Bring)

Gilbert O'Sullivan

Always when you think about it, nothing goes
Quite the way you wish it would do
Even when you think that you have got it made
Someone else has gone and made it too

Usually the first thing you do each day
Isn't different to the last
Even if the same things are happening here
That have happened in the past

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Or which way it's gonna go
There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
But you can be there after the day before

Never mind the weather if the sun don't shine
Well and good and good if it's clear
Seems to me we'd all be at a loss for words
If the weather was to disappear

Losing isn't always a pretty sight
Especially when you go for gold
Still it's only one jump in your life
And with many more to unfold

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Or which way it's gonna go
There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Just like in Norway
There's Nor-way you could know

I wonder what would happen
If all the hills were flattened
And somebody requested a push
How would they go about it
Without a hill I doubt it
A push however hard is enough
Even if a push came to shove

Making all the right moves in excess
Doesn't mean your race is won
Even if your right shoe is on your left
Even if your left's undone

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Or which way it's gonna go
There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
But you can be there
After the day before

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Or which way it's gonna go
There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Droom summer hide fall dawn

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Could be I don't know

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Will it be sunshine, showers
A basket of flowers
There's no way you could know

There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring
Or which way it's gonna go
There ain't no telling what tomorrow will bring