The fireworks from the rooftops fall down around whole town So tell it seems like so long since I've had you beside me here We used to walk together

I've nothing to show me now and it seems like so long Since I've had you beside me here

Well he's got ropes and chains all around her heart And nothing I can say could ever tear them apart Her mumbles come now softly (?)

From the other side of this room

And the things she won't say

Just reminds she's not alone

Well I can't help but feeling a little more than blue
Cause the things that matter just don't mean a damn to you
Well he's got ropes and chains all around her heart
And nothing I can say could ever tear them apart
The fireworks from the roofs all fall down around you
So tell it seems like so long since I've had you beside me here
Lets a walk together

I've nothing to show me now and it seems like so long Since I've had you beside me here Well he's got ropes and chains all around her heart And nothing I can say could ever tear them apart...
