

Waiting For Tomorrow

Ginny Owens

I'm waiting
Waiting for tomorrow
Staring out my window
Until today is done

I'm living
Living for the future
Just biding my time here
Till something better comes along

Resting in the shade
Of my day dreaming
Till I finally awake
To what's been missing

I belong here
In this moment in this day
Not some other place

I was made for
For a race that must be run
So I'll run on knowing that
Tomorrow never comes

My trouble
My trouble with tomorrow
Is that I always try to borrow
Its worries and its time

But when I spend
My life anticipating
Today slips away
While I'm waiting

I belong here
In this moment in this day
Not some other place

I was made for
For a race that must be run
So I'll run on

When today becomes
For more than I can bear
I remember that the end
Is drawing ever nearer

I belong here
In this moment in this day
Not some other place

I was made for
For a race that must be run
So I'll run on

I belong here
In this moment in this day

Not some other place

I was made for
So I'll run on knowing that
Tomorrow never comes

Tomorrow never comes
